J.V. FOOTBALL COMMENCES AT LOYOLA

As coaches of the varsity football Warriors smooth out the edges for their big season's opener Saturday against McGill Redmen, head junior varsity coach Pat Duffy and his assistants are also a busy crew preping their squad.

Duffy, who coached the Eastern Canadian Juvenile Champion Verdun Invictus last year, ^{has} built a reputation as a sound fundamentalist. At Loyola he is now being ably assisted by two other experienced men, Pete Regimbald and Loyola Alumnus Larry Cullen.

The J.V. Braves are practicing daily at 5:00 p.m. on the North field at Loyola and Duffy points out that most positions are still open. All students, especially freshmen at the college with prior playing experience except those who are presently playing for a QRFU team are urged to try out.

"The main role of the J.V. Football program at Loyola is to provide a young man with an opportunity to develop his talents by giving him plenty of playing time and move up to the varsity", said Duffy.

At least three of last year's J.V.'s are top candidates for starting roles on this season's varsity squad. They are Quarterback Gary Plante, who is battling Dave Golding for the first string spot, John Holland, defensive half and Mario Dello Sbarba a corner linebacker.

The Braves play a four game schedule and open on October 5 at Sherbrooke, October 12 McGill Indians at McGill, October 26 they face Royal Military College at Loyola and they wind up the season with a game at College Militaire Royal on November 2.
